Ron Clayton selected by Rep. Bates as Citizen of the Month for Lemon Grove

Congressman Jim Bates announced his selection of Ronald Clayton as the Forty–Fourth Congressional District's Citizen of the Month for Lemon Grove.

Ron Clayton was born in Santa Monica, California on July 3, 1950, but grew up in Lemon Grove.

In Lemon Grove, Ron attended three different elementary schools, including Mt. Vernon. He graduated from Palm Jr. High School, which is now Palm Middle School.

During his freshman and sophomore years, Ron went to Mt. Miguel, but he completed his high school education at El Cajon Valley High.

Ron began working at the age of 16. He has had a wide range of work experience, including jobs as a bus boy, a shoe salesman, a kindergarten aide, and a tutor, among others.

Ron has been the principal at Mt. Vernon Elementary for the last ten years, but he will become the principal of Lemon Grove Middle School in the fall of 1989.

Ron is looking forward to working with and helping students who are at a critical stage in their lives at the Lemon Grove Middle School. He feels that the happier everyone is in their environment, the greater the chance for success, whether it be socially, academically or even professionally. So, he will continue to strive to help the staff and students enjoy what they are doing.

Ron is affectionately called "Mr. C" by the students at Mt. Vernon. He genuinely loves working with students, "and wouldn't trade it for anything in the world."

Ron has a three-year-old daughter, Susannah, and an eight-year-old son, Michael.

Happy Birthday America!

By Richard Garcia

Spring Valley celebrated America's 213th birthday July 4th with a spectacular display of fireworks witnessed by hundreds of local residents and visitors to the area.

The patriotic display was staged at the Spring Valley Swap Meet parking lot to the cheers, whistles and applause of spectators who surrounded the area.

Cars, trucks and campers took up almost all available parking in the shopping malls along Jamacha Boulevard and Sweetwater Road. Over 400 cars paid admission at the Spring Valley Swap Meet parking lot along Quarry Road.

About 1,000 celebrants and picnickers spread their blankets on grassy areas in Spring Valley Park, while many others sat on lawn chairs or car hoods to witness the traditional Fourth of July event.

Local radio stations scheduled patriotic music timed to the 9 p.m. start of the fireworks display. Car and truck radios were turned on loudly, giving the visual display a patriotic audio backing.

The fireworks event was a joint effort of the Spring Valley Swap Meet, who donated the fireworks, and the Spring Valley Recreation Department, who coordinated the affair.

Proceeds from the event went to the Spring Valley Recreation Department Summer Program.

Lemon Grove City Council approves pay increases and curbside recycling program

The Lemon Grove City Council approved salary increases and phase I of a new curbside recycling program. The salary increases were for city employees, firefighters, the City Manager and the Finance Director/City Clerk, and for the City Council itself — although by law, it can't go into effect until after the next election in July, 1990.

Jack Shelver, the City Manager received an 11.4% increase from $67,332 to $75,000, while Karen Thomson was given a 12.5% increase from $49,740 to $55,936. All other salary increases were less.

The new city recycling program is scheduled to begin in September with 1,000 households. After the system is running smoothly, the recycling program will be expanded to cover the rest of the households in the city. The program designed by EDCO, is similar to programs designed for La Mesa, Coronado and National City. Residents participating in the program will separate their garbage into recyclables (such as aluminum cans and non-recyclable garbage. The materials to be recycled will be put in a special plastic bin furnished by EDCO. The driver of the garbage truck will pick up the special bin which the resident has placed at the curb and hand sort the various recyclable materials into special sections of a special garbage truck. Meanwhile, the remainder of the garbage will be tucked to landfills as before.

The recyclable trash will be accumulated by EDCO and then sold, with the revenues only partially offsetting the higher cost of handling the garbage.

Local 14 year-old attends U.S. Space Academy

Spring Valley resident Joe Alkire experienced his own "final frontier" as he trained for space adventure and scientific exploration at the U.S. Space Academy in Huntsville, Alabama.

As a trainee in the Academy's Level I program, 14 year-old Alkire sampled astronaut training through the use of such devices as the Multi-Axis Training Simulator, which is an adaption of early Mercury program training equipment, and the Microgravity Training Chair, similar to equipment used by Apollo astronauts in training for missions to the moon.

Level I trainees use the nations only full-scale Space Shuttle exhibit to get a better understanding of how the shuttle works. Each team of 20 trainees is divided for each mission and each individual is given a specific duty. Despite Level I's relatively young age group every job is taken seriously. As Mission Director, Alkire was second in command, assisting the flight director and overseeing activities on the space station.

"You do have fun," said Alkire "but it's a learning experience."

The learning he spoke of included filling out extensive log books and attending lectures on procedure almost every day.

Trainees observe engineers and scientists design and build prototypes of the 1990's Space Station Freedom at NASA'S Marshall Space Flight Center, and also participate in "hands-on" activities and demonstrations at The Space & Rocket Center.

The Space Academy also offers an advanced, college accredited Level II for high school students as well as U.S. Space Camp programs for younger children, grades four through six.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC MEETING TO CONSIDER AMENDMENTS TO DISTRICT ALLOCATION GUIDELINES FOR WATER SERVICE FOR COMMERCIAL AND MULTIPLE-FAMILY RESIDENTIAL PROJECTS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on July 19, 1989 at 3:30 p.m., the Otay Water District Board of Directors will consider amending the District's guidelines for allocation of water service as adopted on June 7, 1989. The amendments would incorporate changes in the eligibility requirements to enter into an allocation agreement with the District for commercial and multiple-family residential projects. These agreements are being made available to projects greater than 200 equivalent dwelling units and which will require phasing over multiple quarters. The amendments to be proposed at that meeting will include but may not be limited to the following:

1. Total EDUs in all agreements to be allocated to commercial/multiple residential projects in future quarters shall not exceed 150 EDUs.
2. Future allocations in an agreement shall be for a limited term. (Not to exceed four to six quarters including the quarter of execution of the agreement).
3. Agreements will be considered by the Board of Directors at the second Board meeting of the first month of each quarter. Agreements must be finalized with Staff at least one week prior to consideration by the Board of Directors.
4. Projects executing agreements with the District must first complete annexation to the appropriate water improvement district (I.D.) of the Otay Water District.
5. Agreements will require the payment of $1,000 per EDU for all EDUs being requested in the agreement. This payment will be applied against future connection fees or will be forfeited if dwelling units do not obtain building permits with six months of the beginning of the quarter for which the allocation is granted. Forfeiture of fees may be deferred up to two months if delays in obtaining building permits are beyond the control of the party(s) to the agreement.
6. Each development requesting an agreement will be limited to a maximum number of EDUs per quarter (i.e. 50–100). A lesser number may be assigned if the number of EDUs requested from all agreements in a particular quarter exceed 150 EDUs.
7. Notwithstanding Item 5 above, if a developer fails to obtain building permits for 90% of the allocated EDUs within six months of the beginning of the quarter for which the allocation is granted, said developer shall be barred from entering into additional allocation agreements or amendments to existing allocation agreements for a period of one year from the end of said six month period.

If you desire to make any comments regarding these proposed provisions, please contact the District in writing prior to July 19 or orally at the July 19 Board meeting. After consideration of all public comments the Board of Directors may adopt the amended guidelines as proposed or provide for further amendment. The District intends to commence entering into appropriate agreements at the August 2, 1989 Board meeting based on the amended guidelines.

If you have any questions, please contact John Garcia at 670-2213.

Commentary

by Max Goodwin

Many members of Congress will lose their happy Washington homes at the next election. Much of the cause is based on greed.

Greed and dishonesty.

One of the dishonest practices is the support of legislation for personal benefit. Support is exchanged for funds to help gain re-election. It produces dishonest Congress members who acquire huge sums for assuring re-election, often beating out young and honest competitors.

But the most hypocritical ploys are the laws that invoke hardship on their constituency while exempting themselves and their employees from the very same laws.

Examples: They exempted themselves and their employees from provisions of the Fair Labor Standard Act of 1938 while constituents faced fines when charged with unintentional discrepancies.

Other exemptions enjoyed in Congressional offices include the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Equal Employment Opportunity Act of 1972 and the Social Security Act.

Congress also exempted their offices from the Occupational Safety Act (OSHA), and they do not have to answer requests under the Freedom of Information Acts and the Privacy Act.

Such exclusions have prompted at least one senator to accuse Congress of acting as though "What is good and fair for the country is not necessarily good and fair for Congress," according to John Marini, professor of political science at the University of Nevada, Reno, in a book he co-edited, The Imperial Congress, (Pharos Books, 1988.)

In explanation, he wrote, "However reasonable it may seem to Congress to avoid various provisions of the law in order to make its own work go more smoothly, such a practice is fraught with dangers. No one recognized this more acutely than our Founding Fathers," he noted.

When James Madison listed circumstances which would prevent the House of Representatives from taking oppressive measures, chief among them was the fact that Congress could "make no law which will not have its full operation on themselves and their friends, as well as on the great mass of the society. This has always been deemed one of the strongest bonds by which human policy can connect the rulers and the people together."

"It creates among them a community of interest and sympathy or sentiments, of which few governments have furnished examples; but without which every government degenerates into tyranny."

Marini asks, "But what, ultimately, can restrain Congressman from discriminating between themselves and ordinary citizens once they have chosen to do so?"

Madison had said, " . . . the vigilant and manly spirit which actuates the people of America — a spirit which nourishes freedom, and in return, are nourished by it."

He warned that " . . . if this spirit shall ever be so far debased as to tolerate a law not obligatory on the legislature, as well as on the people, the people will be prepared to tolerate anything but liberty."

For 25 years we have allowed Congress to avoid laws and regulations which they imposed upon the rest of us. Let your opinion be given to the media — print and electronic — so that we may join as brethren to prove that we have the spirit to demand a change.

It's The Law

Thomas W. Meads, Attorney at Law

Question: What are some of the legal pitfalls of owning and operating a small pleasure boat?

Answer: Compliance with California law regarding ownership of a small boat is not difficult. Most small pleasure crafts on California waters must be registered and numbered in accordance with California law. An application to register may be filed at the Department of Motor Vehicles. On payment of registration fees, the Department of Motor Vehicles will issue a Certificate of Ownership, a Certification of Number, and registration stickers. The Certificate of Ownership is your evidence of title to the boat and should be kept in a safe place. The Certificate of Number must be kept aboard the boat whenever it is being used. The certificates will contain a number starting with "CF," which is the registration number. This number must be properly displayed on the vessel hull next to the registration sticker, so that its current registration can be determined without boarding the vessel.

Once you become a registered boat owner, you must notify the Department of Motor Vehicles of any change of your address within 15 days. Should the boat be destroyed or abandoned, you must return the Certificate of Ownership and Certificate of Number to the Department of Motor Vehicles within fifteen days. You must notify the DMV of any sale of the vessel within five days, specifically the date of sale and the new owner's name and address. An application for transfer of ownership is contained on the reverse side of the Certificate of Title.

Compliance with California law regarding operation of a small pleasure craft requires a basic knowledge of safety standards and seamanship. These laws are discussed in publications available at the Department of Motor Vehicles, but are best learned through seamanship courses. The more significant provisions of California law regarding operation of a small pleasure craft deal with equipment safety standards, navigation rules, speed limits near bathers and bathing areas, intoxicated or reckless boat operation, confidential accident reports and aiding accident victims.

Violation of these laws can result in civil liability, and even criminal prosecution. However, with appropriate instruction and exercise of common sense, you should have no difficulty complying with California law.

From Where I Sit

by Frank Andrews

The name Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus (The Greatest Show on Earth) still has a ring of excitement for me after the many years since I was a young lad back in Minnesota.

Although we did not have the price of admission in those Depression Days, only 50 cents for adults and 10 cents for kids, my dad would take me to see the circus every year, regardless. He would wake me up way before first light, "Son, hurry up and get dressed. Better take your jacket as we are going down to see the circus."

Dad had found out from the railroad company when the special circus train would pull into the unloading yard and we were there on time. The mornings were always crisp-cold but the oncoming excitement was always well worth the shivers and goose bumps.

In those days, animal power was used to unload and put up the huge tent, mostly horses and elephants that were part of the circus acts. All the menagerie of animals were rolled off the flat cars in their brightly colored cages on wheels so as not to be disturbed.

As soon as the tent was up and all the other equipment was in place it was time, early afternoon, for the big parade through town to advertise the coming attractions. This was the highlight of the entire day and made the long, cold wait worthwhile. Bands, clowns, bareback riders, animals, (some in cages and some marching on their own), and acrobats, all decked out in their most brilliant colored costumes.

The long day was well worth it as I had seen some of the excitement that the people that could afford the admission price had not seen.

After those memorable days of my youth at the circus, it was many years before I returned with my own three lovely daughters. By being a member of a Masonic clown group and selling peanuts at the Shrine Circus, I had a free run of the circus facility. I took full advantage of that privilege and gave my girls an inside look at the clowns dressing up and a free ride on the animals. We could well afford the admission then, $5 for adults and $1 for kids, but my three little daughters had the advantage of seeing a little more just like I did over 20 years before.

Vasconcellos urges 'passionate leadership'

By Max Goodwin

Californians have an opportunity to regain self-esteem under a "revolutionary" program proposed by the new Assembly Select Committee on Ethics, Assemblyman John Vasconcellos told members of Pete Chacon's Breakfast Circle Friday at the Kona Kai Club on Shelter Island.

Vasconcellos is a veteran of 23 years in Sacramento, a member of the powerful Assembly Ways and Means Committee and heads the new Select Committee.

"We are embarked on a bold program of passionate leadership," he said. "We want to return self-esteem in a manner that reaches every family and its members."

It will be based on ethics that reach from top to bottom of the state's population, he said.

Some of the elements include creating a revolution of wholeness where people are not separated by race or gender.

"We are beginning to develop preventative techniques in the self-esteem process," he said. "There are 81,000 people in California jails," he said, referring to some of the lower points."

"There's family planning in which we save $8 for every $1 we invest in the program."

"We must convince people that things are stacked against them unless they get schooling K–12 and beyond," he added. "We've got to have an outpouring of public support for the pride program for the Select Committee on Ethics effort."

California School Boards Association urges school and senior contact

Both students and seniors benefit from greater involvement of seniors

As California becomes more stratified, with the "haves" far removed from the "have-nots," an alarming part of the trend for educators is the growing isolation of our oldest citizens from our youngest. In today's unsettled and mobile society, schoolchildren need all the love and guidance they can get.

But increasingly we find that the students who populate our schools — many of them poor children, on welfare, from single-parent families — and the state's senior citizens often live totally apart. We cannot allow this isolation to continue.

Senior citizens have a lot at stake in efforts to make schools better. Twenty-five years ago, 17 workers supported each Social Security recipient. With our aging population, that support today comes from only three workers — and one is an ethnic minority.

It's clear that the more education students receive, the higher their salaries will be after graduation and the greater their contributions to Social Security. The future welfare and survival of senior citizens depend in a very real sense on an educated populace.

With many city streets now unsafe for older people to walk in, there is further reason to support public education. The link between a low educational level and a later criminal record is well established. In no way can California provide enough prisons for ever-rising numbers of criminals. It is a far better and cheaper investment to give schools funds to turn out producers rather than parasites.

As our population lives longer, with many people retiring between ages 55 and 60 and living until 80 or longer, senior citizens are playing a much more active role. They have a vested interest in parks, clean air and clear water. They want quality in their lives, and best way to maintain this is through education.

We know that senior citizens feel good about the country and feel good about their own grandkids, their flesh and blood, their children's children, the people they're going to leave their possessions to when they pass on.

We in education must renew our efforts to invite senior citizens to visit our schools, meet the children their grandchildren meet every day, consider serving as volunteers. They can make a greater contribution — as tutors, teacher aides, semi-official historians. This has been the case everywhere it has been tried.

It is vital for all of us to end a situation where many senior citizens who strongly influence school policy at the polls have no direct connection to the schools and the challenges schools face.

The future will shine brightly as long as we are willing to meet those challenges. If we fail, our children and grandchildren will pay a severe price and, for the first time, a new American generation will have fewer opportunities than its parents. We must not permit this to happen.

The school year started (already!) for year-round schools July 3

July is traditionally a time for students to head to the beach rather than return to school. However, these summertime plans are changing as a growing number of schools convert to a year-round schedule and remain in session all year long. For some students, the new school year started as early as July 3, 1989.

San Diego County school districts will be operating 90 year-round schools in 1989–90, up 37 schools from just two years ago.

Year-round elementary schools will enroll approximately 65,000 students, which amounts to over 25% of the county's elementary school enrollment. While 81 of the county's year-round schools are elementary schools and five are special education, independent study, or continuation school programs, it is noteworthy that the Sweetwater Union High School District is placing two secondary schools—Sweetwater High and National City Junior High—on a year-round schedule beginning July 17. The county's only other secondary schools on a year-round schedule are Farb Middle School in the San Diego Unified School District and La Presa Junior High in the La Mesa-Spring Valley School District.

Students enrolled in year-round school attend school for the same 180 days as their traditional school counterparts. The difference is that year-round school students typically go to school for 45 days and then take a 15 day break. As a result, students have several shorter breaks during the year rather than a long summer vacation.

Many educators feel this factor gives year-round students an advantage.

"The year-round concept more nearly fits the way students learn," said Charles Ballinger, a curriculum coordinator at the San Diego County Office of Education and the Executive Director for the National Association of Year-Round Schools. "We do students no favor by giving them three months away from formal learning."

Ballinger adds that year-round teachers can spend more time teaching new material and less time on review because students don't have the summer to forget the previous year's instruction.

Year-round schedules take either a multi-track or single-track approach.

In a multi-track plan, students are commonly divided into four equal groups, or tracks. Three tracks, on a rotating basis, are always in session. As a result, a multi-track school can accommodate at least 25% more students than a traditional-calendar school.

In a single-track plan, all students attend the year-round school at the same time.

Multi-track plans are normally seen in schools that are overcrowded. Single-track plans are preferred by schools that want to obtain the benefits of a year-round education by have sufficient room to house their current student population.

With San Diego County school enrollments increasing at four percent per year—or about 15,000 students—multi-track schools are becoming an increasingly popular phenomenon.

In the La Mesa-Spring Valley School District, six schools are already on the year-round basis. They include Bancroft School, La Presa School, Loma School, Rancho School, Rolando School and La Presa Middle School.

Local teachers participate in UCSD Summer Math Institute

Among the 52 high school math teachers selected from 18 San Diego and Imperial County schools to participate in a special four-week Mathematics Teacher Institute at UCSD this summer are Michael Johnson and William Sullivan of Mt. Miguel.

The innovative three-year program has two tracks — a major one targeted at "crossover" teachers (those originally trained in another subject area and with little or no previous preparation in mathematics), and an advanced track for those who studied mathematics at the university level.

The four-week summer program runs July 10 through August 4 with teachers meeting on the UCSD campus Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m.–3 p.m. Less-experienced mathematics teachers attend classes in algebra and geometry while the more-experienced teachers participate in seminars such as "Introduction to Analysis" and "Discrete Mathematics."

The Institute is part of a major effort at UCSD to work with K–12 educators to increase the effectiveness of mathematics and science instruction in the schools.

According to Ledden, one of the coordinators of the Institute, "The underlying premise is that confident teachers who are knowledgeable in their disciplines can greatly increase the competency of their students in mathematics and science."

Waterhogs never know when to stop. They don't know how much water is needed, so they play it safe and end up turning their lawns into Olympic-sized swimming pools.

How do you know when enough is enough?

Look for leaks. When run-off starts flooding your driveway or sidewalk it's because your lawn has had enough to drink.

Or step on it. If the grass springs back to life, it has all the water it needs. Also, try not to water more than every second or third day. Like camels, lawns can go a few days without so much as a drop. Especially in winter, when lawns are dormant.

Let's make waterhogs an endangered species.

The more we conserve, the better. For example, see if you can brush your teeth without that steady stream of background noise. Make sure all your hoses have nozzles. And wait for full loads before turning on your dishwasher or washing machine.

Conservation. Our way of life.

There's a lot we can do to be water tight. Quench your thirst for more information. Just give us a call at (619) 297-3218.

San Diego Mission to commemorate 220th birthday

The weekend of July 14, 15 and 16, 1989, will be a time for joy and celebration as Mission San Diego de Alcala, California's oldest church, commemorates its 220th birthday with the annual Festival of the Bells staged over the entire weekend on the ancient Indian grounds of the Old Mission.

Friday, July 14, the Fiesta will run from 6 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. The evening's activities and entertainment will include a disc jockey playing dance music, and a local talent show with some surprise guests. Plans are being made for the enjoyment of all ages in a family-style atmosphere.

Saturday, July 15, the Fiesta will run from noon to 10:30 p.m., with the day's festivities beginning with the colorful procession following the Blessing of the Bells and Angelus to be led by the pastor of the church, Monsignor I. Brent Eagen. Visitors are urged to bring bells to the Fiesta to have them ring out with the Mission bells during the Angelus. Throughout the day on Saturday, the lush garden areas of the Parish will be alive with music, good food, games for all visitors, and a "white elephant" sale. A pit-roasted barbecue, hot dogs, nachos and Spanish Paella will be served for lunch and dinner and a Sweet Kitchen will be open to top off the meals.

Saturday, July 16, the Fiesta will run from 10:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. The highlight of the day will be the Blessing of the Animals, beginning at 3 p.m. This event was first begun in 1769 by Fr. Junipero Serra, the first pastor of the Mission, and continues to this day. Closing ceremonies on Sunday will include a grand prize drawing at 8 p.m. — one need not be present to win.

All proceeds from the Festival of the Bells will be used to benefit the historical Mission's ongoing restoration program. The public is most welcome to attend.

Lemon Grove Troops shine in Boy Scout Camp-O-Ree

Boy Scout Troop 108 attended the 75th Anniversary International Camp-O-Ree held in Potrero County Park, 45 miles east of San Diego, on July 23, 24 and 25, 1989. Approximately 3,000 Scouts from the United States and Mexico gathered for competition in skills used in scouting around the world.

Troop 108, under the leadership of Scoutmaster Jim Hall is sponsored by Lemon Grove Congregational United Church of Christ dating back about 38 years. The troop is very competitive with the added guidance of Committee Chairman, Joe Smithey and Assistant Scoutmasters, Church Jackson and Ed Emerson.

Nine Boy Scouts attended the Camporee from Troop 108 as well as five adults to assist. Boy Scouts Richie Fletcher, John Lasiter, Alex Curtis, Sean Alexander, Blake Skullerud, Nathan Taber, Michael Rempel, Steven Hernandez and Monique Roscoe all took part in various skill competitions. The troop accumulated 387 points participating in the following events: knots, nature, first-aid, log lifting, log sawing, compass course, life-saving, hazardous material, three-legged socker and tug-of-war. Most events were scored with 25 points and Troop 108 scouts scored bonus points in numerous events.

Also competing in the Camp-O-Ree skills was Troop 168, sponsored by St. John of the Cross in Lemon Grove. Attending the weekend events were 7 boys and 4 adults. Boy Scouts Ben Aldridge, Abe John, Mark Scott, Damien Scott, Kevin Malady, Tony Perez and Cecil Collier competed.

The Scoutmaster for Troop 168 is Ed Miller, with Assistant Scoutmaster Keith Scott.

The scouts attending Camp-O-Rees such as this one come away having tested their scouting skills and spirit, and more importantly with a better understanding of the words, "World Brotherhood of Scouting." It is not winning the competition that matters, but more importantly developing an understanding of the meaning of "Brotherhood in the Human Family." For more information about Boy Scout Troop 108, call Scoutmaster Jim Hall at 469-1731 or Asst. Scoutmaster, Chuck Jackson at 582-6107.

Grossmont Hospital presents cancer lecture

Cancer of the colon and rectum strikes approximately 140,000 Americans each year. Yet when detected early and treated promptly, over three-quarters of all such patients can be cured. Since colorectal cancer develops over a period of time, it is possible to detect the disease long before symptoms appear.

Over 93 percent of cases occur after the age of 50. Anyone with a personal or family history of colorectal cancer or polyps in the colon should be examined by a physician.

Grossmont Hospital is offering a free colorectal cancer lecture on Thursday, July 20, from 7–9 p.m. in the Brier Patch Auditorium, 9000 Wakarusa Street. Dr. Bruce Beck will discuss prevention, detection and treatment of colorectal cancer. For more information, call Grossmont Hospital Community Relations, 589-4140.

Bolshoi Ballet Academy returns to United States for six-week tour

65 dancers and graduates of the Bolshoi Ballet Academy return to the United States (including San Diego, July 25–30), after a 20-year absence, for a six-week, eight-city national tour.

Performances in San Diego will be at the San Diego Civic Theatre July 25–30 at 8 p.m. with matinees Saturday at 2 p.m. and Sunday at 3 p.m.

A highlight of the visit will be the featured performances by Moscow Classical Ballet principal Vladimir Malakhov, prima ballerina Galina Stepanyenko of the Stanislavsky Theatre of Opera and Ballet and Californian Michael Shannon.

These exceptional young artists, graduates of the academy, under the direction of Madame Golvkina, arrive in this country following their triumphant performance at the 6th Moscow International Ballet Competition.

The competition was held June 9–23 at the Bolshoi Theater. A 25-member panel of international judges awarded only three gold medals at the end of the arduous two-week competition.

Extracts from popular classical ballet such as "Paquita," "Swan Lake," "La Fille Mal Gardee," and "Coppelia" will show the Company's unique training.

The Bolshoi Ballet Academy is presented here by the James M. Nederlander San Diego Playgoers Series.

Original play to open at Lemon Grove Arts Complex

The Lemon Grove Arts Complex will premiere "Fish Stories," a new play by El Cajon resident Ruff Yeager, as a part of its 10-week run slated to feature new, innovative artists.

The original script chronicles the lives, loves, laughter and lamentations of three men who struggle to understand life in the 20th century.

The production, directed by Yeager, will feature Paul Gilbert, a current M.F.A. student at the University of Arizona, acting all three roles.

Performance dates are July 21–22, and 28–29 at 8 p.m. The Arts Complex is located at 8075 Broadway, Lemon Grove.

For ticket information call 469-7020.

Burt Bacharach to present movie music to San Diego audiences

San Diego residents will soon have a chance to meet internationally acclaimed composer/songwriter Burt Bacharach as he provides a behind-the-scenes look into movie music in the summer film series Reel Music: A 75th Anniversary Salute To The American Society Of Composers, Authors and Publishers.

The series, which is presented by the Visual Arts Foundation and Great American Bank, began June 6 and will conclude July 18 with Bacharach's presentation on his music from "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid."

The evening's activities, to be held at the La Jolla Museum of Contemporary Art, will begin with an informal "meet the artist" reception buffet, followed by a discussion with Bacharach, a screening of the film and a question and answer session.

Bacharach's work on "Butch Cassidy" won him two Academy Awards, one for scoring and the other for the film's hit song "Raindrops Keep Fallin' on My Head."

Other popular songs written by Bacharach, along with Hal David, include "Alfie," "I'll Never Fall In Love Again," "What's New Pussycat?," and "Do You Know The Way To San Jose?"

According to Andrew Friedenberg, Visual Arts Foundation Director and Director of the Cinema Society of San Diego, Bacharach plans to perform some of his hit songs on piano during the July 18 presentation.

Joe Freed on the movies

Lethal Weapon 2

A lot of sequels get made these days that are just plain awful. For some reason the level of excitement and originality set by their predecessor cannot be maintained. After a while, moviegoers no longer look forward to, but actually fear the likes of Rambo III, Rocky IV, Police Academy VI, and so on. Sequels simply stop being fun.

There are a few exceptions however, whether it's Star Wars, Indiana Jones, James Bond or in this case Lethal Weapon. The producers and directors of these films realize that in order to please the public and make them feel they got their money's worth, after paying some outrageous sum, each successive film must be more dazzling, more exciting and much more fun than the original. Believe me, this is one sequel that doesn't disapoint.

The movie, directed by action-flick veteran Richard Donner, is actually superior to its original, boasting a super-intense pace and non-stop action. Lethal Weapon 2 is incredibly violent, very bloody, vulgar, sexy and, as far as action films go, veritably perfect.

The audience is catapulted from one scene to the next, never really given the chance to catch their breath, and only allowed to slow down for a moment of laughter.

Mel Gibson and Danny Glover skillfully recreate their lethal partnership and both actors have filled out their characters to perfection. Gibson's crazed lunatic and Glover's straight-man play off of each other nicely, and it is their banter which supplies the film with the majority of its comedic value.

The supporting cast is excellent, especially Joe Pesci as an accountant whom Gibson and Glover must protect until he can turn states evidence against some South African drug czars. Pesci is likeable despite his character's irritating personality and he truly adds something to his scenes. Patsy Kensit is also good as Gibson's love interest.

Take caution though, Lethal Weapon 2 is a harsh portrayal of policework. It earned its "R" rating because of its nudity, offensive language and violence. It's a terrific movie, but it may not be for everyone.

CRITICS RATING: A

Weekend at Bernie's

Johnathan Silverman and Andrew McCarthy star as two corporate flunkies who think they're on their way to the top when their boss Bernie, (played by Terry Kiser), invites them to spend the weekend at his luxurious beach house.

Things get complicated when Bernie turns up dead, none of his neighbors notice and Silverman and McCarthy learn of Bernie's plan to have them both murdered. The only way they know of staying alive is by making the hitman think Bernie is not dead...don't ask why, it's a long story.

Anyway, the film is then dominated by humor surrounding the boys' adventures carting around Bernie's dead body, pretending he's alive. It sounds pretty gruesome and it is. It's also pretty funny.

Silverman and McCarthy do a good job with their roles, although the screenplay refuses to allow them any depth, and although not all of the jokes work, the film does have its fair share of big laughs.

It may not be the best movie out right now, but it's worth a look.

HomeFed's 55th anniversary promotion offers Emerald CD's

"Think Green" and you typically think St. Patrick's Day, lucky leprechauns and four-leaf clovers.

But when Home Federal thinks "green," it thinks emerald stones – the 55th anniversary gem. And to celebrate its 55 years of business in California, the company is kicking-off an emerald-theme anniversary promotion.

To start, Home Federal is offering an "Emerald Certificate of Deposit." Any six-month certificate of deposit (CD) of $2,500 or greater opened between July 3 and August 31 will receive a special rate bonus of more than half a percent – 55 basic points to be exact.

"In addition to the rate bonus, the investor will receive a half-carat emerald when opening an Emerald CD with $20,9000 or more," said Maura Grimes, deposit product manager at Home Federal. Investors may choose from a real half-carat emerald or a simulated one-carat emerald. The emeralds are available while supplies last.

An example of the bonus interest is if the current rate on a six-month CD is 8.95 percent, the rate at Home Federal during the promotion would be 9.50 percent.

Home Federal first opened for business in downtown San Diego on August 27, 1934. Charles K. Fletcher, founder and sole employee, opened the doors with $9,500 in capital pledged by 50 San Diegans.

In 1956, Home Federal opened its second office in the North Park area of San Diego. By 1970, the company had 10 offices in San Diego County and opened its first Orange County branch in Santa Ana. It moved into Northern California in 1972.

Home Federal is a subsidiary of HomeFed Corp., based in San Diego. As of March 31, 1989, Home Federal had assets of $17.4 billion and a regulatory net worth ratio of 7.17 percent.

Home Federal, the nation's ninth largest savings and loan, operates 200 branches throughout California and lending offices in Florida, Georgia and Virginia.

Linda Ollis named new Association Administrator at Grossmont Hospital

On July 5, Linda N. Ollis joined the Grossmont Hospital family as an Associate Administrator.

Ollis will oversee the departments of Environmental Services, Nutrition Services, Rehabilitation Services, Senior Programs as well as other hospital services.

Prior to joining Grossmont Hospital, Ollis was the vice president of University Hospital in Cleveland, an 874-bed facility in Ohio.

Ollis has an extensive background in health care administration and will be a valued addition to Grossmont Hospital.

Wimbledon quarterfinalists to compete in Great American Bank Tennis Classic

Wimbledon quarterfinalists Gretchen Magers and Rosalyn Fairbank, both residents of San Diego, will compete in the Great American Bank Tennis Classic, July 31–August 6.

The Great American Bank Tennis Classic is the largest, most significant women's tennis event ever held in San Diego. The tournament, to be held at San Diego Tennis and Racquet Club, will disperse a purse of $200,000. Also scheduled to compete in the tournament are Steffi Graf, Pam Shriver and Lori McNeil.

For further information or tickets, call 276-LOVE.

Photographs depicting history of San Diego Chargers on display at Union Bank

A panel display of over 70 photographs depicting the history of the San Diego Chargers is on display at the Union Bank on Waring Road in Allied Gardens.

From their first game at Balboa Stadium on august 6, 1961, to the ground-breaking and construction of Jack Murphy Stadium in 1966 and 1967, to the Chargers' 1987 season, the pictures span over 25 years of San Diego's professional football history.

Dr. Israel Barken to address Men's Club at Congregation Tifereth Israel

On Wednesday, July 19, 1989, at 7:30 p.m., Dr. Israel Barken will address Congregation Tifereth Israel Men's Club on "Defeating Prostate Cancer: New Frontiers Using Laser and Ultrasound."

Dr. Barken will discuss some of the high tech advances which have led to easier and more accurate methods of detecting prostate cancer at an earlier stage. Dr. Barken is an assistant clinical professor at UCSD, but his private practice in urology is located in East County. He has been awarded a U.S. patent for a method and apparatus of computerized laser surgery and is engaged in research using laser on prostate disease.

His talk will focus on new treatment options now available for both benign and malignant prostate.

This informative program is open to the general public. Congregation Tifereth Israel is located at 6660 Cowles Mountain Boulevard in San Carlos.

Bailey's drug-free housing policy adopted

Second District Supervisor George F. Bailey was successful in receiving unanimous approval from the board of Supervisors acting as the Housing Authority today for a sweeping zero tolerance drug-free housing policy. Tenants and landlords who participate in government-assisted housing in most portions of San Diego County and who engage in illegal drug activity will be penalized under the terms of this policy. Sitting as the Board of Commissioners of the County Housing Authority, Supervisors adopted this policy initiated in March by Bailey, which incorporates drug-free language as a condition of any lease agreement and participation in any government assisted housing program.

Bailey declared, "Block by block, we are conducting a campaign using all of the resources available to make our neighborhoods drug free. We must mobilize every law abiding citizen to stop the vicious infiltration of drugs which is destroying families and entire neighborhoods."

The new program will affect an area covering more than million residents and includes the entire unincorporated area of the County plus the cities of Chula vista, Coronado, Del Mar, El Cajon, Encinitas, Escondido, Imperial Beach, La Mesa, Lemon Grove, Oceanside, Poway, San Marcos, Santee, Solana Beach and Vista.

Supervisor Bailey encouraged the cities of Carlsbad, National City and San Diego, who have independent Housing Authorities, to adopt the same policy. "To be successful," he said, "this campaign must be conducted countywide with a clear, unified message that we will accept no less than total drug-free housing in San Diego County."

Bailey noted that a letter to landlords last month about the new ordinance has resulted in positive feedback. "Most landlords are already applauding our efforts to help them rid their premises of drugs."

The policy adopted by the board also calls for an education program to provide training and resources for landlords for screening tenants, inspecting premises and taking action against occupants involved in illegal drug activity. Bailey applauded the cooperative efforts of the San Diego Apartment Association, San Diego Board of Realtors and sheriff's Department. "I am especially pleased to see the dedication and commitment from the private sector. The success of this program depends on the commitment of these organizations and all landlords working with the Sheriff to rid housing of drug activities," said Bailey.

The Board is also seeking legislation for authorization to terminate eligibility for subsidized housing for persons involved in illegal drug activities and to place sanctions on property owners who permit such activities on their premises.

The County Housing Authority was established in 1975 to provide decent, safe and sanitary housing to low income residents. It operates programs for the construction of new, low income housing units, rehabilitation of existing housing stock and provides rental assistance to families seeking private rental units at affordable prices.

Crunchers remain confident after loss

When the brackets were announced for the ASA State Championship Tourney in Escondido this past weekend, the Crunchers knew they had their work cut out for them. Of the two brackets, the Crunchers were in the more difficult. Coach Ralph Mora said that it would take a little bit of luck to go along with the talented play of the Crunchers. There was no luck for the team in Escondido. The Crunchers are confident that they will earn a berth in one of the next two tournaments.

They defeated Tsunami by the score of 7-0 for openers. In that game, Lisa Perettie pitched a two hitter while striking out six. Amy Dawson had the game winning RBI. In game two, Amy Dawson pitched a masterful four hitter against favored Goleta Waves but gave up a single, a sacrifice bunt and another single for the only score of the game. The Crunchers had runners on base every inning but could not score. The 1-0 loss sent the Crunchers to the loser's bracket.

In game three, Crunchers scored five runs in the second inning, collecting 11 hits, and beating Black Gold from Garden Grove 5-3. Alison Brickner pitched 4 scoreless innings. The runs were scored quickly when the coaches, attempting to relieve the pressure on the three starting pitchers, inserted a reserve pitcher. Lisa Perettie, Lisa Mora, Lisa Wilson, Angie Davenport and Michelle Gomez had two hits each. A rematch of last year's championship game in Riverside had the Breakers from Ventura at the mercy of Lisa Perettie who gave up no hits in the 4 innings she pitched in game four. Amy Dawson and Alison Brickner came in to share the pitching duties and keep the shut out intact.

Kneeling are Lisa Wall, Amy Dawson, Angie Davenport and Lisa Mora. Standing in Row 1 are Alison Brickner, Tara Tanber, Andi Byard, Jody Zollinger, Lisa Wilson and Cathy Slatinsky. In Row 2 are Grace Brickner (manager), Lisa Perettie, Ali Pniak and coaches John Brickner, Ralph Mora, Sheri Riley and Rick.

In what was to be the final game of the tournament for the Crunchers, the Athletics scored first in the 4th inning when Lisa Perettie game up a rare walk, which later scored on a single. The Crunchers could not cash in on scoring opportunities until the top of the 7th when Lisa Perettie coaxed a walk, was sacrificed to second by Lisa Wilson and scored on Amy Dawson's single. Crunchers were not able to score on the international tie breaker in the top of the 8th. The A's used a sacrifice fly to score the winning run and walk off with the 2-1 win.

Crunchers have two more opportunities to earn a berth in the ASA 19-under National Tournament in Sioux Falls, South Dakota in mid-August. The next opportunity is in Ventura the weekend of July 21–23. If that attempt fails they must journey to Sacramento the following weekend for the final attempt. "It is always best to win early and avoid the rush," said coach John Brickner. "Unfortunately we could not repeat last year's success, so it is on to Ventura."

Grace Brickner had a few words for the young ladies and their families in the community. "Softball opens so many opportunities for young women and their families. It is a way to play together as a family unit. It affords the chance to develop many friendships. It fills the spare time. It gives the girls a feeling of accomplishment. It teaches responsibility and nurtures the skills to work together as a team. In addition, most of the college-age girls are playing at the college level and several are on scholarship. We are a young team, so most of the girls have one more year at the high school level. Playing this level of softball exposes their talents to coaches from all over the country. Most of them can expect some financial support for their college years, and they are doing something that is fun. In addition, the parents have a great time at the tournaments and get-togethers. I would recommend it to anyone."

Sports Commentary

By John E. Wirges

Working lights burn early and late in Norrie West's La Mesa home office. He lives on a quiet, comfortable kind of street just west of the Grossmont Shopping Center where everybody owns their own home and neighbors share the fruits of their back yard harvest.

It's hardly the setting you'd expect for the nerve center of a world-wide sportin' event.

But that very task keeps Norrie at his desk while late night and early morning fog lays a cooling blanket over our corner of Camelot.

Norrie is the general chairman and tournament director of the Optimist Junior World Golf Championship getting ready to swing away in its 22nd annual challenge in four age groups over 5 courses July 18–21.

More than 730 boys and girls representing Optimists districts across the nation and champions and challengers from 33 foreign nations will tee up in the most international athletic competition staged anywhere in the world. It's even featured in prime time on Japanese TV.

The 10-and-under "tinimights" will test the grounds at Presidio Hills, the 11 and 12 youngsters chase Pine Glen's par at Singing Hills, while the 13–14 swingers challenge the ups and downs of Balboa Park.

The younger divisions play 18 holes a day over 3 days in a 54 hole exercise. The young men and women in the 15–17 age group tee up in a full 72 hole test with the girls playing the north course and the boys tackling the south course at Torrey Pines.

In case you forgot, Torrey Pines courses are the same challenges PGA touring pros face in the Shearson Lehman Hutton Golf Tournament.

As you might have guessed, the youngsters play from the back tees and get the same kind of nasty pin placements the pros get. They wouldn't have it any other way.

Let's see now. There are some 730 players plus assorted coaches and chaperones with transportation, food and lodging needs, suitable coverage for home town and home country interests, scorers, officials, marshals, interpreters, suitable social gatherings, awards ceremonies and a myriad of other equally demanding problems and situations. It's no wonder West's days are full at the office and lights burn late at home.

He has help, of course. Dot Spencer and Joan Smith carry a herculean load in administration and finance control and a host of San Diego volunteers dedicate talent, time and effort in a golf-loving display of overwhelming generosity.

Optimist International President, Montreal's Femand Rondeau, is ably represented by Tom Watters and policy and support matters ride easily across national boundaries to all the civilized world.

Still, when the nitty gets down to the gritty, one person must make decisions. One person must approve or deny, add or delete, give a yes or a no to problems anticipated and unforseen on a daily or, as in some cases, even an hourly basis.

Somehow Norrie West gets the job done. He waives personal praise and insists his aides and helpers do most of the work. But the truth is, Norrie is the heartbeat and living spirit of the Junior World golf tournament and somehow he brings the whole thing off on a budget of less than $50,000. That may be the biggest miracle of all.

Friends, fans and golf buffs are invited to watch the 15–17 age group golfers play. The younger groups play sans gallery.

The whole thing kicks off Sunday, July 16 at Torrey Pines with a spiffy jazz mini-concert beginning at 4:30 p.m. Welcome ceremonies follow, beginning with a parade of 70 flags representing the countries, states and organization joining in this year's tournament.
